Model says -8.5. Market is giving you two and a half points of respect for a public road dog.

Lions -6

Green Bay at Ford Field · Sunday 1:00 PM ET · Spread · 71%

Model wants -8.5. The market is holding at -6 into 72% public money on Green Bay — that's respect for the dog you don't have to pay for.

The number: Take to -6.5. Pass at -7.

- Four of the last five at Ford Field were Detroit by 10+.
- Green Bay needs the deep ball; Detroit takes it away indoors better than anyone.
- Packers' receiver room is thin this week. The one thing they do isn't available.

Chiefs -2.5

Kansas City at SoFi · Sunday 4:25 PM ET · Spread · 68%

This opened -3.5 and got bet down by loud Herbert money while 64% of tickets sit on the Chargers. When the public piles on and the number won't move their way, take the other side.

The number: Take at -2.5. Fine to -3. Pass at -3.5.

- Chargers' interior OL injuries force max-protect — it kills the deep shot the public is pricing in.
- KC allows pressure at a 19% clip (6th); LAC allows 32% (27th). Trench mismatch.
- Reverse line movement: heavy LAC tickets, number still hanging at -2.5.

Ravens -3

Buffalo at M&T Bank · Sunday night 8:20 PM ET · Spread · 64%

Books that don't move for fun steamed this from -2.5 to -3. Buffalo's tackle rotation is unsettled, and if the edge isn't clean, Allen's hero ball is the whole offense.

The number: Take -3 flat. Do not buy to -3.5. Pass past 3.

- Baltimore's front four vs a Bills tackle group that isn't settled.
- Lamar's designed-run game has been the night-game script that covers 3.
- Baltimore is 9-3 ATS in its last 12 home night games.

Monday night at Lumen · 8:15 PM ET · Total · 62%

The total opened 48.5 and got crushed on "Seattle weather" talk. Forecast: 62°, 6 mph, no rain. You're being paid two points for weather that doesn't exist.

The number: Take to 47. Pass at 47.5.

- Two top-pace offenses that both throw in a neutral script.
- Both QBs are plus-EPA when the game is within one score after halftime.
- Model total is 49.2 against a 46.5 market.

Eagles -3.5

Philadelphia at AT&T Stadium · Sunday 4:25 PM ET · Spread · 59%

Philly is the more complete roster and Dallas can't finish drives — but 3.5 is a sweaty number in a loud building. This is the softest play on the card. Size it that way.

The number: We want -3. Playable small at -3.5. Pass at -4.

- Eagles' trench advantage travels, even in this building.
- Dallas red-zone defense keeps trading touchdowns for field goals.
- Lowest confidence on the slate — half a unit, no more.
